ABSTRACT

A device for air texturizing yarns comprises a ceramics material body through which is slidably driven at least a yarn to be air texturized, characterized in that the ceramics material body is continuously rotated during the texturizing process.